FIRE CAUSES MILLION LOSS

Portland, Ore., Docks and Grain Ships Burn With Great Grain Consignment

12,000 TONS BARLEY AND WHEAT BURN IN HOLDS

Flames Started in Pile of Chaff—Warehouses Destroyed Along the Docks

PORTLAND, Ore., March 12.—A fire starting in a pile of chaff on Columbia dock No. 2, destroyed two docks, spreading to the Royal Mail steamer Glenroy and the steamer Cricket. The Cricket was towed to a safe place, where it burned to the water's edge.

Twelve thousand tons of wheat and barley in the Glenroy's hold and on the dock were destroyed.

The Glenroy was only partially destroyed, but her cargo will be almost a total loss. The grain loss will reach $365,000. The total loss, it is estimated, will exceed one million dollars. The grain was owned by W. H. Houser, an exporter. Several warehouses along the docks were destroyed, and a third dock was partially consumed.

Spontaneous Combustion. Later reports indicate that spontaneous combustion in the wheat chaff caused the fire. Columbia dock No. 1 and the steamer Cricket immediately became furnaces. The Cricket was cut loose and set adrift. Instead of floating down stream she bumped into Montgomery dock No. 2, setting it afire. The burning oil on the water communicated the flames to the other piers. The fire boats finally pulled her off to a small island up stream and left her to burn.

400 OUTLAWS KILL AND LOOT IN CHINA

Norwegian Missionary Killed—English and U. S. Property Ruined at Lao How Kow

PEKING, March 12.—That Dr. T. Froyland, a Norwegian missionary, was killed, recently, and much American and British property was destroyed in a bandit raid on Lao How Kow in Hupeh province, was the news brought here recently by other missionaries who are refugees. Four hundred outlaws entered the town through the connivance of a treacherous official, the missionaries said. When they left, a scene of indescribable violence was occurring, and many Chinese had been killed. When the bandits had concluded their plundering they forced 2000 coolies to accompany them and carry the loot.

English Missionaries Slain. LONDON, March 12.—Misses E. and J. Black, English missionaries, attached to the Inland China Mission, were killed by the bandits who sacked Lao How Kow, according to Central news dispatches here.

NO COMPROMISE PROPOSAL IN SHAPE

Walker Leaves Without Getting Anyone to Agree to Anything

HIS DESIRE IS TO GET IT SETTLED

He Outlined a Plan of Possible Disposal—Will Return Later

State Building and Loan Commissioner Walker spent a busy day here yesterday, and while he outlined a plan of settlement of the affairs of the Orange County Mutual Building & Loan Association, wrecked by its former secretary, N. A. Elm, that he believed ought to be accepted by all parties concerned, so far as known he got no definite promises from any concerned that his plan would be met.

Walker's plan, in short, as outlined in the Register yesterday, is to have the directors and former directors of the association provide a sum of money from which Walker can satisfy all creditors and pay the shareholders fifty cents on the dollar.

Walker stated that there are a number of claims that are doubtful. He does not believe that he should accept anything concerning which there is any question, and that is the reason he stated he would reject some claims, probably including that of the First National Bank for $17,000.

"The fact that I reject a claim does not mean that it will not be paid," said Walker. "It merely means that in case of no compromise, the claimant will have to establish his claim in court."

Walker stated that in view of the conditions, in view of the difficulty that will be encountered in raising the money among the directors and former directors, some of whom have nothing except their homes, he believed that the stockholders ought to be willing to settle the affair at fifty cents on the dollar.

Walker left last evening. He will proceed with the matter further by correspondence with his deputy, F. W. Mansur, of the Orange County Title Company, and probably will be in Santa Ana again soon. So far as his work here yesterday was concerned no definite results were accomplished. Walker had not expected that any compromise offer could be put up and accepted in a day's time. Possibly the next step to be taken will be a conference of the directors to see what can be raised among them, provided they admit their liability.

Attorney H. C. Head, who represents a number of stockholders, had a short conference with Walker. He will receive whatever offer of compromise is forthcoming, and when he gets such an offer in definite shape he will put it up to his clients.

BOMBS THROUGH MAILS NOW FEARED

Rumor of Explosives Sent to Police Driving Unemployed Out of Sacramento

MORE MEN SAID TO BE ON WAY FROM SAN FRANCISCO

Unemployed Accused of Raid on Armory at Woodland With Theft of Arms

SACRAMENTO, March 12.—Police officials are investigating rumors of bombs being mailed to officers responsible for driving the unemployed army from Sacramento. They do not credit the reports but are watching all mails and incoming express consignments. Guards are still maintained at the river bridge, and several of the unemployed attempting to enter the city were turned back this morning. Others are reported as having ferried across the river, entering the city from below. It is reported here today that another force is being organized at San Francisco to join the marchers here. The leaders say the men will arrive on Sunday or Monday.

UNEMPLOYED ACCUSED OF ROBBERY CO. F ARMORY

WOODLAND, Cal., March 12.—The Armory of Company F, National Guard, was entered during last night and a quantity of Springfield rifles and several hundred rounds of ammunition were stolen. Officers suspect men of the army of the unemployed. A dozen deputies are trailing clews.

The interior of the armory was wrecked, the officers' quarters torn open, lockers ransacked, and the floor littered with clothing and ammunition. Because the Woodland company is in Sacramento on duty no one is able to determine the number of rifles stolen or the amount of ammunition taken. Many blankets are missing.

1000 MEN YET IN CAPITAL. OTHERS RIDING BRAKEBEAMS

SACRAMENTO, March 12.—Nearly one thousand men of the unemployed army remained camped today along the levees opposite Sacramento. The men took a formal vote to remain together until their leaders are released from jail here. Nevertheless, every passing freight train is carrying away a full quota of brakebeam passengers. Southern Pacific authorities have issued orders to permit the men to ride wherever possible. The number here has already considerably diminished.

Several of the leaders are in San Francisco today in an attempt to organize a defense league for the army to provide funds to aid in the proposed transcontinental trip. District Attorney Wachorst announced today that he will prosecute all prisoners to the limit for vagrancy. The Yolo county sheriff today refused to arrest the new leaders, as he believes the army will soon disintegrate.

WAS PAID WELL EARLY VOTE ON FOR TAKING OF NOTES CANAL TOLLS REPEAL

Alleged Canal Tolls Lobbyist Rules Committee Favorable—Confesses to Receiving Page's Speech in London Big, Fat Fees Subject of Resolution

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The flat admission that he had received a $1000 fee and had entered into contracts involving contingent fees of $4000 for merely attending congressional committee meetings and taking notes without talking to senators or congressmen, was made before the senate lobby committee by Chas. W. DeKnight, alleged anti-canal free toll lobbyist.

DeKnight said that the thousand-dollar fee was paid by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company of Quincy, Mass. When asked what he did to earn the money he replied that he did lots of work taking notes. He denied that he ever spoke to the committee. He admitted attending a conference of the representatives of the shipbuilding interests but denied knowledge of any fund raised to influence canal tolls legislation.

Chairman Henry of the rules committee said the bill will be presented immediately after the rivers and harbors bill has been passed, either late next week or early in the following week.

WANTS TO KNOW JUST WHAT WALTER PAGE SAID

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Senator Chamberlain of Oregon has introduced into the Senate a resolution calling on the State Department for the text of the speech made by American Ambassador Walter H. Page before the Associated Chambers of Commerce of London last night, in which he is quoted as saying: "The Monroe Doctrine simply means that the United States would prefer that no European government gain more land in the new world."

Chamberlain professed a deep interest in the statement attributed to Page in the same speech to the effect that he "would not say that the United States had constructed the Panama Canal for England, but that the consideration that the British would profit most by its use added greatly to the pleasure of building it."

The resolution called for the information upon which this statement is based.

Kern Flooded With Telegrams Asking Him to Appeal for Clemency

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Senator Kern, counsel for twenty-four union labor men found guilty at Indianapolis of illegally transporting dynamite, announced today that he will not ask for executive clemency at this time. The supreme court recently denied their appeal for a review of the penitentiary sentences of the men. Kern's decision followed the receipt of news intimating that President Wilson would not favorably consider such a request. Kern has been flooded with telegrams asking him to act, as a pardon alone stands between the unionists and prison.

LOS ANGELES TIMES CASE PART OF THE CONSPIRACY

The labor men were convicted of conspiracy to carry dynamite and nitroglycerin on interstate passenger trains. In furtherance of this conspiracy, it was charged that Orrie McManigal carried these explosives on such trains to Chicago, Timm, O., Los Angeles and scores of other cities from coast to coast.

Evidence showed that one of the explosions that grew out of the conspiracy was that which destroyed the Los Angeles Times building. The conspiracy existed from 1906 down to the indictment in 1912.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.—Advertisement.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH BROTHERHOOD HAS SPLENDID DINNER

The Speakers for the Evening Were H. C. Head and W. C. Roberts

A pleasant and profitable gathering was held by the Men's Brotherhood of the Christian church last night, when an excellent dinner was served by the ladies of the church. Rev. Paul E. Wright, the popular pastor of the church, presided at the board in his usual happy manner, introducing two speakers for the evening, Attorney H. C. Head in whose discussing the question, "Why Are There More Women in the Church Than Men?" from a layman's point of view opened up some channels of practical thought of a good deal more than usual interest. One point made by the speaker was that men haven't the moral courage of women to come out boldly for what they know they ought to do.

"If there was a back door or a side door to get into the church," said the speaker, "there would be more men join the church. It takes moral courage to enter the church before the whole world through the front door." Head brought forth the idea that it is every man's duty to join some church and thereby identify himself with the Christian religion, the only perfect religion, which is responsible for Christian civilization. He said it was just as much of a duty as it is for every man to be a good citizen.

W. C. Roberts, principal of the Intermediate school, had his hearers in laughter most of the time he was talking. During the course of his remarks he spoke of his belief, strengthened as he grew older, that two great forces, good and evil, are striving against each other, and that it is every person's duty to put his full strength in favor of the force for good.

Rev. Wright stated that the next meeting will be held in the auditorium of the church, and that the public will be invited. Rev. E. M. Dowling of Pasadena and Placentia will deliver one of his splendid lectures.

LIVING LIGHT GOES UP LIGHT GOES DOWN

Study the following illustration. The size of these lamp globes is in exact proportion to the purchasing power of light for ONE DOLLAR—1908 compared with 1914.

Now you are enjoying a 7 cent per kilowatt maximum lighting rate, with free lamp renewals. The rate decreases to a minimum of 2 1/2 cents per kilowatt hour, the scale of reduction being in proportion to the amount consumed.

Nine years of voluntary rate reduction is our record. New rates (effective March 1st, 1914) show the enormous cheapening in light, while nearly all other commodities of life have continuously advanced.

PROTECTION DISTRICT AS IS OUTLINED

In Some Sections Committee Finds Considerable Opposition to Project

Anaheim Herald: The committee which was appointed at the mass meeting held here recently for the purpose of forming a river protection district, met yesterday afternoon at the library building. This committee is composed of representatives from various points of northern Orange county, including C. S. Holt, Garden Grove; A. S. Peagan, Garden Grove; J. E. Stockwell, Fullerton; C. L. McCumber, Buena Park; J. W. Duckworth, Anaheim; E. A. Day, Anaheim; A. Nelson, Buena Park; J. F. Rose, Buena Park; W. M. Wellman, Anaheim; Mr. Porter, Yorba Linda; J. Allen Anapp, Garden Grove; R. S. Gregory, Fullerton; J. Frederick Ahlborn, Anaheim; H. C. Lawrence, Magnolia.

It was the plan of the committee to secure as far as possible the sentiment of the people of the northern part of the county in regard to forming such a district. After a lengthy discussion, it was found that out of the entire committee only three were really in favor of forming the protection district.

The opposition to the proposed movement was found to be very strong in the western part of the county, Buena Park, Garden Grove and Magnolia districts bitterly opposing the movement. J. Frederick Ahlborn, W. M. Wellman and Mr. Porter, of Yorba Linda, voiced their sentiments which heartily indorsed the formation of a river protection district. Some members of the committee were absent. H. C. Lawrence of Magnolia said that it was too large a matter for the people here to handle and if it was attempted a law suit would be the result, as the Newbert district would not stand for having a large bed of sand washed into their draining canal. He thought the government should handle such matters. After much difficulty the committee succeeded in mapping out a protection district, the lines being drawn as follows:

From Yorba Linda to Orange-thorpe avenue, then west on Orange-thorpe to the Garden Grove road, then south to Garden Grove; from Garden Grove east half a mile, thence south until the Newbert draining district is reached.

The matter will be brought before the Anaheim Board of Trade at its next meeting, at which time the committee hopes to have more definite information to give out.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

Salts, Calomel, Pills, Act on Bowels Like Pepper Acts in Nostrils

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.—Advertisement.

(By Staff Correspondent.) ORANGE, March 12.—The sixteenth anniversary of the local chapter, Eastern Star, was celebrated last evening at Masonic hall, with a banquet followed by a social program.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try it! Your Hair Gets Soft, Fluffy and Luxuriant at Once

If you care for heavy hair that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?—Advertisement.

ANAHEIM

GOING TO AID RE-BUILDING OF THE PLANT

Board of Trade Proposes to Offer Preserving Company Site and $1500

ANAHEIM, March 12.—J. S. Howard, chairman of the Public Improvement Committee of the Anaheim Board of Trade, addressed the members in behalf of the Orange County Preserving Company, whose plant was totally destroyed by fire some time ago, resulting not only in a great financial loss to the proprietors, W. H. Herman & Taylor, but throwing a number of persons out of employment.

Through the efforts of this committee a site suitable for the company's purposes has been secured on Santa Ana street, but it is estimated that about $1500 will be necessary to aid the owners in the erection of a building, and this Howard proposes to raise by subscription.

It is the intention of the company to have the plant in operation for the summer crops and they contemplate the installation of adequate equipment to handle all manner of fruits and vegetables produced, one of the most notable features being the use of cull oranges which has been successfully demonstrated elsewhere.

Irving Pickering and Charles Volmer, secretary and stock salesman, respectively, of the Universal Tire Company of this city, are demonstrating the tire that will be manufactured in Anaheim on the site recently acquired by the company.

The principle of this tire, which is the invention of Hall W. Holdaway, president of the company, and which may revolutionize the tire industry is a series of chrome-nickel steel bands covered with a steel mesh fabric, making the tire puncture and blowout proof.

The company aims to have the plant operating by the latter part of June and to employ 300 men by September, with a payroll of from $8000 to $15,000 monthly.

RETAIL TRADE IN MARCH

In the calendar of retail trade, every month has its own individual characteristics. March is a time when the public, by following newspaper advertising, can still pick up some goods at low prices, which the merchant dislikes to carry over until fall. But the principal characteristic of the month is in the news about the spring styles.

The warmth of the returning sun, light sparkles in these announcements. The descriptions of light clothing in gay shades suggest all the fascinations of summer travel, sport, and outdoor life. It is a pleasure to read the spring advertising, merely as a presage of the "good old summer-time."

March is the time in which people of taste and discrimination enjoy shopping because the assortments of goods are more complete than they will be later. Economically minded people ask anxiously, however, whether things are going to cost more now than if bought later.

Here is where it is up to the merchant to tell what he has been doing. He has been planning for this spring campaign for months past. If he has been alert and watchful, and well informed, he has found opportunities to build up his stock at prices that will please the public.

Not every merchant is able to buy at right prices in these times of shams. To do so calls for extended experience in a given line, thorough information about methods of manufacturing, and the gift for driving a good bargain. The man who is bright and alert enough to cope successfully with these conditions does not sit down in a corner of the business district and wait for the public to come to him. The same qualities of enterprise that appear in his buying appear in his selling. You will find his story in the advertising columns of this newspaper. It is worth your while to read it.

A GREAT SCHEME—IN RED

It is reasonably to be expected and certainly to be hoped that the movement to make Santa Ana distinctively beautiful by a general planting of red geraniums in street parkings will meet with the hearty co-operation of all citizens.

The possibilities are entrancing, and at least the results can be confidently expected to obliterate the onion beds and cabbage patches with which a few of our parkings have been and still are adorned.

So far as possible the streets chosen for decoration with broad ribbons of green and red should be so decorated without a break—at least with as few breaks as possible. Of course exception should be made of those frontages that have been already planted and cared for by the owners of abutting property, unless such owners voluntarily agree to join in the beautiful color scheme proposed.

The red geranium plan was a happy thought. These plants are easily propagated, grow quickly and foliage and blossom profusely.

With proper co-operation on the part of citizens, societies, schools, etc., the city streets can be made strikingly beautiful, and the result will be not only pleasing to visitors but a source of constant pleasure to our own people. And the advertisement will be great.

Labor and Liquor

Chester H. Rowell in California Outlook

The resolutions prepared by the Los Angeles labor council and passed by the Oakland, San Francisco and Fresno labor councils on the "wet" and "dry" question are a curious example of middle-headed logic. Translated into direct English, their significance is about as follows:

Whereas, "the labor movement, as such, is devoted to the single issue of labor advancement, therefore, no individual connected with that movement shall, as an individual, join in any other issue. And, whereas, it is inexpedient that the labor movement take any sides on the wet and dry issue, therefore be it resolved that we hereby take the wet side of the aforesaid issue."

If the labor organizations must keep out of the liquor question, why not keep out of it? To say that it is involving labor unions in an irrelevant issue to take one side of the question or that it is keeping out of it is simply too absurd to consider, once it is stated in language plain enough to understand. Furthermore, there is no economic argument on the liquor side of any wet and dry issue which will stand examination. The matter is decidedly debatable on the moral side. Drastic liquor regulations may be honestly and logically opposed as an interference with individual liberty, or with the right of communities to determine their own policy. On this question consciences differ, and it is unfortunately one of the hardest questions on which to induce people to exercise moral tolerance. The convinced prohibitionist is inclined to regard any one as insane who asserts that he takes the liquor side because his conscience tells him that that is the moral side, while the convinced advocate of personal liberty in this question finds it difficult to speak in unprofane language of the motives of those who, because they do not like to drink themselves, insist on passing laws to regulate what other people shall eat and drink. Nevertheless, the two sides of this issue are moral sides, and the argument in each case is a moral argument.

Pertinent Discussion of Political Policies and Especially "Progressive"

To the Editor of the Register:

In the account of the meeting of the Progressive Club in Tuesday evening's paper we were told that a member of the club proposed the adoption of a prohibition plank. Seriously, it has appealed strongly to the sense of humor in many of us, that a party calling itself progressive should have neglected to place in its platform any reference to the greatest evil of the present time, the greatest hindrance to the progress and uplift of humanity. In Col. Roosevelt's Argentina speech he was reported as giving among the lofty aims of his Progressivism, that no woman should work unduly, "that every child should be provided with food, clothing, shelter and education," and one wonders how, without the suppression of the drink evil, those ends could be accomplished.

One needs to go no more than a few blocks in any town in our land to find a woman standing long hours at the wash-tub in her struggle to make a living for children whose father has been debauched by drink. The Socialists, who have us believe that it is Carnegie, Rockefeller & Co. that force little children into the factories and mines; but investigation shows that in most cases it is the parent or parents made vicious and inhuman by strong drink, who drive children, not only to work, but to lives of crime and shame. In a report of child labor conditions in the south an instance was given of a little girl who worked all night in a factory, the ten cents she earned being appropriated by her father for an extra morning dram. We have scripture authority for it that strong drink was making trouble in the days of Noah and Lot, some time before the advent of the present "system."

But to return to the report of the Progressive Club meeting. We do not read that Mr. Rexford's motion was adopted. "Not a party matter." And this is probably as far as it will go. I believe it was some 1200 bills that were presented for the consideration of our last progressive California legislature of which over 800 became laws, all of more importance, it is to be presumed, than the prohibition question. But I make this comment on Mr. Rexford's motion: Time was when outside of the Prohibition party, no recognition of the drink evil was ever made at any political meeting. No one who reads and thinks can deny the fact that a more moral strain is making its way into the thought and laws of the people. There is coming to be more recognition of the rights of the poor and the weak and of the responsibility to wards them of the stronger and better placed. This slighted, despised, rejected prohibition cause has in it the elements of the eternal right, and it will not down. Who knows just at what time it may become respectable and safe to adopt? It behooves our strongly competing political parties to watch closely. The women are voting, remember!

ELLA BEVIER ROBINSON.

The Political Watchtower

With G. E. Peters resigning as county recorder and J. M. Backs being appointed in his place, the last few days certainly have not been devoid of political happenings. It may be that the early bird gets the worm. In fact, that is a generally accepted fable. Joe Backs did his best to prove its truth.

It will be remembered that Peters sprung a surprise on the Board of Supervisors. He walked in and presented his resignation. Backs was in the office of the county clerk, where he is a deputy, and standing near the door that lies between the board's office and the clerk's office. Backs heard the resignation read. Suddenly he had an inspiration. Why not be the next county recorder? No sooner thought than he acted. Just then Supervisor William Schumacher, who comes from the north end of the county up in the region where Backs was raised, stepped out of the supervisor's room.

"Say, Bill," says Joe, "I want to be appointed county recorder."

"Go to it, Joe," says Bill. "You have got my vote."

And Joe proceeded to corral enough more votes to land the job. And when Backs steps down the hall of the courthouse to take up his position as recorder, there will be someone right on hand to take his place as deputy county clerk. This morning County Clerk Williams decided who that deputy should be. He is Albert R. Dresser of 1523 French street. Dresser will make good in the position. He graduated among the pioneer classes, and went to the University of California. He will be assigned to the clerkship of Deputy, Mount No. 1, Judge West's court.

where Backs now is.

The Watchtower operator has observed a number of interesting things in politics recently, and among them is the lining up of forces out in the second supervisorial district. Thomas B. Talbert of Huntington Beach, chairman of the board, is supervisor from that district at the present time, and he is running for re-election. Somebody has been telling around out in the Garden Grove neighborhood that Talbert was not going to be a candidate. Whoever started that story had his wires crossed. Talbert is a candidate, and he is in to stay to the finish. One of Talbert's close friends told the Watchtower man that rumors that Talbert is not running are false. The Watchtower man took it up with Talbert himself, and Talbert's answer right off the reel was that he most certainly is a candidate to stay in until the last vote is counted. Tom Talbert is some traveller when he starts to travel, and he has started to travel.

Great is the San Joaquin! As the San Joaquin goes, so shall the sheriff of Orange county be chosen.

The only trouble that the San Joaquin is going to encounter in its political manipulations is that it is going to have to do an awful lot of twistings if it comes anywhere near living up to the expectations and promises that have been made for it.

The Watchtower got a message some weeks ago from a man who was anxious that Sam Jernigan run for sheriff.

"He'll carry the San Joaquin," said the messenger. "The boys out there all want him to run, and they'll shove him under the wire."

About that time a supporter of Howard Wassum dropped in, and told about Wassum's prospects.

"He used to farm out on the San Joaquin," said he. "He will carry the San Joaquin," said he. "He will carry the San Joaquin solid. The boys are all for him, and they can't beat him."

And then along came a booster for John Cook of Anaheim, and said he: "John has got the San Joaquin back of him, and it is all over but the shouting. You know he has farmed out there for years."

No sooner had the Cook man gone than up stepped one of C. E. Jackson's friends. By the squint of his eye, and the knowing look on his face the Watchtower man suspected what was coming.

"It's settled—the sheriff's fight is settled," declared he, "the boys out on the San Joaquin are going to give Jack a whopping big vote. He's got the precinct easy."

Just then a man wearing a deputy sheriff's badge on his suspender returned from a scouting expedition for Sheriff Ruddock.

"Ruddock will be re-elected," was the authoritative statement forthcoming. "He has got a lot of friends out on the San Joaquin who will attend to that precinct for him."

And each and every one of these informants took it for granted that it was all up to the San Joaquin, and whatever the San Joaquin did would settle the sheriff's heated battle. The Watchtower investigator was mean enough to look up the Great Register for 1912, and found that there were 115 voters registered on the San Joaquin. This year there will be about 20,000 in the county.

There is no question but that the San Joaquin boys are good hustlers, and they have the reputation of delivering the goods. But how in Sam Hill are they going to deliver the goods all around in a case like this?

There is going to be more than an ordinary lot of fun in Westminster township. The rest of the county can get busy getting out candidates for courthouse jobs, but Garden Grove and Westminster haven't time for any of that right now. They are busy keeping track of candidates and prospective candidates for justice of the peace and constable. The postmaster at Garden Grove has been settled by the appointment of Frank Thompson. Altogether there were five candidates for that office. If things keep on going as they have been going there will be a heap more candidates for justice alone than there were for postmaster.

Here is a rumor. You know that a rumor is not authentic, and therefore consider this as authentic only in that it is alleged that there is a rumor. The rumor has it that City Treasurer Hiram D. Connell is going to run for county treasurer.

And here is another rumor, and the Watchtower man's guess is that it is a mighty well-founded rumor. The rumor has it that one of the candidates for sheriff is going to withdraw.

Mr. Nealley Replies to Mr. Jarvis
Editor Register:—In last evening's paper appears a communication from Chas. E. Jarvis of the Christian Science Publication Committee, criticizing my statement before the Philosophy Club to the effect that the healing principle at the bottom of all psycho-therapeutic systems is identical, and inviting the reader to consult Mrs. Eddy's discussion of hypnotism in Science and Health.

Mrs. Eddy's explanation of hypnotic phenomena and all forms of mental healing outside of Christian Science is the old theory of "animal magnetism," according to which one person gained control over the mind of another person. That theory was abandoned by scientific investigators fifty years ago. The psychological theory which prevails today may be summed up as follows:

1. An idea is an impulse to act, that is, an idea tends to express itself in motor reactions or bodily condition, and will do so unless inhibited by contradictory ideas.

2. This power of ideas over bodily states and conditions is called suggestion.

3. The most powerful suggestions are religious ideas, and the most powerful inhibiting suggestions are "fear-thoughts."

4. The mental state called hypnosis, in all its various degrees from "waking suggestion" to deep sleep, is explained by the principle of dissociation, or split-off streams of consciousness.

5. In this state of dissociation subconscious reservoirs of energy and life are tapped and released by suggested ideas.

6. This conception readily lends itself to a religious interpretation of mind cures. The subconscious is conceived to be the point of contact between the human and the divine. Suggestion opens the gates through which pours into the human soul and body divine streams of life-giving power. This is the doctrine relied on in all systems of religious psychotherapy today, such as the Emmanuel movement, New Thought, etc.

To the person interested in this general subject, let me offer the following suggestions:

1. Read Mrs. Eddy's discussion of hypnotism in Science and Health.

2. Then read the following: "Hypnotism," Its History, Practice and Theory," by Dr. Milne Bramwell of London; "Three Thousand Years of Mental Healing," by George Barton Cutten; "Mesmerism and Christian Science," by Frank Podmore of Society for Psychical Research; "The Human Personality," by F. W. H. Myers (dealing with doctrine of the subconscious and principle of dissociation); "Latent Energies of Men" (pamphlet), by Prof. William James; "Mental Healing of Today," by J. Addington Bruce.

3. Let the reader then make his own comparisons and draw his own conclusions as to there being an underlying principle in all psychotherapeutic systems.

Yours truly,
EDWARD M. NEALLEY.

INTERESTING AFTERNOON

Women of Christian Church Heard Spanish Children Sing and Learned of their Needs

At the Christian church yesterday afternoon was held the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the C.W.B.M., and there was a good attendance of members. The Sunday school room was arranged to look "homey" and the decorations were of bridal wreath, white roses and smilax, the white flowers, emblematic of purity. Blending beautifully with the topic: "The Missionary Education of the Children." Mrs. W. T. Mitchell had charge of the program.

After the business period, which was conducted by Mrs. F. M. Seelye, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Brinsending, a class of Spanish children, who, with their teacher, Mrs. Clark, were guests on the occasion. Mrs. Mitchell gave two songs. Mrs. Clark then told of her work among them and of their needs. The company then listened to a sweet solo by Venus Renison. Mrs. Dr. Sylvester gave a good solo along the line of "Children's work." Mrs. D. C. Pixley of Orange, being present, gave an urgent appeal for a good attendance at the district convention to be held at Fullerton next Thursday.

At the close of the program dainty refreshments were served and all enjoyed the social hour.

South Dakota Picnic

The South Dakota Association of Orange county will hold an all day picnic in Orange County Park on Wednesday, March 18, and all former residents of South Dakota, or visiting citizens of that state, are cordially invited to attend this reunion and enjoy the day.

There are probably 100 South Dakotans in Orange county and it is earnestly hoped that all of these will be present. There are 70 to 75 of these in Santa Ana, many of them hailing from Brookings county.

U. D. Palmer is president of the Orange county association, Judge E. T. Langley is vice president, H. H. Reeves, secretary-treasurer.

W. R. C. Tea and Play

The program and tea given by the post and corps yesterday was very successful. A large number were in attendance. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Viola Pippis and aides. After the singing by all of "America" Judge Langley talked on "The Pleasant and Unpleasant Side of the War of 1860, anecdotes and stories of the struggle being given.

The W. R. C. play was announced and the cast of characters given. Miss La Rue Pippis, who impersonates the charming southern girl, plays a very important part in the play. Mrs. H. Clay Kellogg will be seen as the wife of Matthew Lee. This character is a beautiful Southern type of the elderly woman. Mrs. Babbitt will carry the soubrette role of the production. Her personal charm will have a good vehicle in the character of Sadie. George Gardner will be seen in the character of Col. Matthew Lee, a strong type of a Southern gentleman. Ray Dean will handle the juvenile role of the play, the dashing young man from the Southern city whose romance is one of the charming features. Ernest Attick is one of the principal characters of the play. Paul Diablo will impersonate the man who is a careless, humorous vagabond, who finally rises to the giant of fortune and morality. Miss Pae La Gre of Los Angeles will be featured in song numbers between the acts of the play.

St. Patrick's Social

The Emerald Isle and her verdure can be no more gorgeous than was the gaily attired company that assembled at the Mac Robbins home Wednesday evening. The coming of St. Patrick's Day suggested to the Baptist Christian Endeavor young people the idea of a "Wearin' o' the Green," which culminated in the jolly event at the Robbins residence.

From the moment the hospitable door opened until it closed on the departing of the last guest fun and laughter held sway. After an inspection of the various combinations of green in bonnets, sashes, stockings, shoes, neckties, collars, ties, etc., an exciting potato race was witnessed. Then there was a potato boxing match. After this the company made shamrocks, then the blarney stone was displayed and those anxious to be blessed were blindfolded and found it and kissed it. J. Wiley Harris convinced all of his dignity as he led in the gymnastic game of "I Come to Annoy You." The program of Irish poetry and jokes informally contributed, lent to the fun of the evening.

The refreshments served were baked potatoes and butter, lettuce sandwiches, a cup of "tay" and shamrock mints.

After all the merriment had subsided the company gathered about the piano and entered heartily into the singing of a number of familiar and popular sacred songs. The evening was in every way a success, but the anticipations for the next event of this society promised even more merriment as it is to be arranged by the young men of the society.

HONORED HER BIRTHDAY

Mrs. McClurkin Recipient of Gifts from Members of Mission Society

The Ladies Missionary Society of the Reformed Presbyterian church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. Towner of Orange avenue. The devotions were led by Mrs. McClurkin, after which two interesting papers were read by Mrs. A. A. Park and Mrs. Geo. N. Greer. Roll call was responded to by the different members giving the names of women characters of the Bible and the lesson to be learned from their lives.

A number of visitors were present and as a part of the social time enjoyed after the program. Mrs. McClurkin was given a little surprise in honor of her birthday, being made the recipient of a pretty souvenir spoon. She responded in her usual happy way, and then succeeded in blowing out all the candles on a large birthday cake placed before her. The hostess then served refreshments of ice cream and cake, the ladies then making their adieu feeling that the afternoon had not only been a delightful one socially, but profitable in an instructive way.

Home Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Owens, 603 West Sixth street, was the scene of a pretty home wedding yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the hour at which their daughter, Amelia, was united in marriage to V. Eugene Peckham. The bride was attired in a chic traveling costume, and was escorted by David Searborn, nephew of the Methodist church. South pronounced the lines of the marriage ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Peckham started on their honeymoon immediately after the ceremony, traveling by automobile to Venice and Ocean Park, where they will spend a brief time. On their return they will reside at 802 Bush, where they will be at home to their large circle of friends, who will join in welcome and congratulations. Mr. Peckham is the secretary-treasurer of the West End Garage and has won an esteemed place in business circles. The bride is a well known and well liked girl in social circles.

Studied of Argentina

The Young Ladies' Ebbl Travel Club met at the home of Mrs. John Tubbs, 1702 Bush street, yesterday afternoon. Most of the members were present. The subject for discussion was South America, a continuation of the topic from former meetings. Miss Mabel McFadden and Mrs. Clyde Walker were in charge of the program.

Miss McFadden spoke of the Argentine Republic, illustrating her talk with a map of Argentina drawn over the map of the United States, so that an adequate idea of size might be given by proportion and comparison. Argentina, she demonstrated, is but little smaller in area than this country. It is also a trade rival of the United States as well as a rival in the matter of resources.

Mrs. Walker's paper described Buenos Ayres, the capital of Argentina, as a magnificent city comprised largely of wealthy people with a fondness for display. Pictures of the country and its cities were passed around for inspection, making an interesting addition to the well written papers.

Conversation, music and sewing occupied the social period, which was pleasantly ended by the serving of light refreshments.

Miss Montgomery of Texas was a guest of the club. The next meeting of the club will be held on April 8 with Miss Ava Wells.

EVERY WIFE'S DUTY

Watch Husband's Hair. If Thin or Full of Dandruff Insist on His Using Parisian Sage

Men give but little thought to the care of the hair. Not until the first bald spot appears do they really take notice. If your husband's hair is getting thin; if he has dandruff or itching scalp, take immediate action—do not let him become a bald head.

Get from any drug or toilet counter a 50 cent bottle of Parisian Sage. The first application stops itching head and removes dandruff—the great hair destroyer. A little Parisian Sage rubbed well into the scalp for a few nights will work wonders. When hair stops falling and the new growth appears, a frequent use of this invigorating tonic is all that is needed to make the hair perfectly healthy, thick and beautiful.

Surely try Parisian Sage. Rowley Drug Co. sells it with an agreement to refund your money if not satisfied. It's a delightful hair tonic for men and women.—Advertisement.

Handling Trust Problem

President Wilson and Attorney-General McReynolds have held several conferences the past week in going over the several measures pending in Congress dealing with the trust problem. A Washington dispatch says, regarding the conference:

"No announcements were made afterward, the Attorney-General expressing the opinion that the whole question would have to be worked out gradually, but an idea of the principles which the administration desires embodied in the proposed legislation was gained from an authoritative quarter. The Attorney-General and the President are in agreement that the proposed Interstate Trade Commission can be made a valuable instrument for dealing with the trust problem, provided its powers are properly restricted. It should not for any instance, they think, exercise any administrative or regulatory functions or in any way encroach upon the field of the Department of Justice. Co-operation between the department and the commission would be aimed at, much of the work now done by the Department of Justice being transferred to the new commission."

"Both the President and the Attorney-General realize there are a multitude of decisions already on the Sherman law and they desire not to add in any way to the judicial complications over the famous trust law. They agree it might take years to interpret some of the things proposed in pending bills and that the effect might be to restrict the Sherman law. What the administration is desirous of doing is to add such legislation as will help to prevent monopoly but will in no way increase the already debatable area around the anti-trust law."

Southern California Edison

The annual report of the Southern California Edison Company for 1913 shows a gain over the previous year of $411,839 in gross, $346,110 in net and $186,056 in surplus after common dividends. Interest increased $110,000 and the allowance for depreciation was $50,000 greater than in 1912. Following is the statement:

	1913	1912
Gross earnings	$4,759,280	$4,387,441
Net earnings	2,354,485	2,098,355
Interest and amortization	181,850	208,796
Depreciation	700,000	650,000
Preferred dividends	200,000	200,000
Common dividends	420,000	420,000
Surplus	215,615	29,559

The company has sold $1,500,000 general mortgage bonds of 1909, due 1939, making $12,225,000 outstanding. The bonds are being marketed at 96 and interest, yielding 5.27 per cent.

State Bank Certificates

The State Banking Department has granted the following certificates: First Bank of La Habra, Fullerton, Orange County, to operate a commercial and savings bank; the Security Savings Bank and Trust Company, Oakland; to change its name to the Security Savings Bank of Oakland, and the Roseville Banking and Trust Company, Roseville, Placer County, to change its title to the Roseville Banking Company.

An application of the Golden State Bank of La Habra for authorization to establish a commercial banking business in Fullerton has been refused.

The Union Trust Company of Santa Rosa has applied for permission to change its name to that of the Union Savings Bank.

The People's Loan and Trust Company of Riverside has applied for a certificate authorizing it to commence business in Riverside.

Union Oil Sues State

The Union Oil Company of California has filed suit in the Superior Court in Los Angeles against E. D. Roberts, State treasurer, for the recovery of $40,908 alleged to have been paid under protest August 18, 1913, and February 2, 1914, as State corporation franchise taxes. The plaintiff alleges the State Board of Equalization assessed the plaintiff's franchise unjustly and excessively and that the law under which the assessment was made is unconstitutional.

The Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company, the Producers' Transportation Company and the Union Producers' Company have filed similar suits asking for the return of $3,060, $14,800 and $2,750 respectively. All the plaintiffs ask interest from the time of payment.

Record Recording Fee

A check for $835,512 from the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, in the form of a recording fee for a mortgage, established a new record in the hall of records of New York this week. The New York Central and Hudson River Railroad paid the sum stated as a recording tax. It had mortgaged all of its property in the State of New York to pay outstanding issues of indebtedness. The amount of the mortgage is $167,102,490. The loan is payable to the Bankers' Trust Company as trustees.

Satisfied With Sherman Law

The New York Chamber of Commerce Thursday passed a resolution declaring that the Sherman anti-trust law as finally interpreted and elucidated by the United States Supreme Court "is proving more satisfactory and more effective" than the proposed new legislation now pending in Congress. Such legislation, the resolution states, would need "new interpretation by judicial decisions for years to come."

Corporations do have souls, regardless of contrary statements. Among the great corporations who demonstrate this is the Standard Oil Company. Cold blooded this is the great combination in business and in the transactions with the general public, but when it comes to its employees it cares for them in a splendid way. Employees of this giant corporation, when they have attained the age of 60 years and who have served the company for 20 years, are retired and up to the age of 65 they receive one-half the salary every year that they had previously earned, and after 65 years of age one-quarter the amount of their annual salary is paid so long as the employee lives.

Would Divide Income Tax

An amendment to the income tax law has been proposed in the Senate by Senator Gallinger, the Republican floor leader, by which one-half of the income tax collected in each State shall be paid over to the State Treasurer to be equitably distributed to the various cities and towns. Senator Gallinger said his object was to reduce local tax rates.

Railroad Man Optimistic

"The Panama Canal will reduce the running time for bulk freight from New York to the Pacific Coast. Freight will move faster from the Atlantic to this shore by water than it does at present by rail, and accordingly the shipments of freight will be much cheaper and will tend greatly toward the upbuilding of the Pacific Coast. I know that the canal will affect the railroads, but I am not sure that the effect will be to their disadvantage."

This is the optimistic view of W. C. Brown, formerly chairman of the board of directors of the New York Central Railroad and still a director and one of the big men in the railroad world. Mr. Brown is now in Pasadena for a prolonged visit. In this interview, from which the opening paragraph above is taken, he is quoted thus:

"I am not a pessimist, and I believe good business conditions are coming, but they are not what we might desire just now. The railroads are not increasing their facilities, due in large part to the fact that liquid money has been absorbed and rates of interest upon the big sums needed by the railroads are too high. The failure of the corn crop in many States and its partial failure in the others has materially affected railroad business and naturally reacted upon other lines."

"The outlook is for better business conditions, however. The currency bill, I believe, will work out for good, and the tariff bill no doubt will prove beneficial in time."

"There is a great deal of speculation as to the effect the canal will have on railroad business. It will not lessen the returns to the railroads, that is certain. All freight coming from the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific Coast through the canal will be subject to the short haul railroad tariff from the point of origination to the Atlantic. This will be true of freight originating as far west as Toledo. As against the present transcontinental rate from such points to the Pacific, which is comparatively low, will be the short haul rates to the Atlantic, which are comparatively high. If the canal increases business it will increase the railroad's business commensurately."

"In favoring the immediate repeal of the Panama Canal tolls act President Wilson is guaranteeing the good faith of the United States in its dealings with other nations. America can well afford to suffer temporarily a small inconvenience if she is to win in the long run a solid foundation of honesty and square dealing with the other nations of the world. The United States in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty obligated herself to do certain things and the Panama Canal tolls act undoubtedly is in conflict with the provisions of that treaty and therefore threatens the international integrity of this country. So far as the United States is concerned, I would say that it is better to sacrifice a present material advantage for the sake of honoring an obligation; it will pay in the long run. As to the assertion that the railroads of the United States are interested in securing for English ships the use of the canal upon the same basis as American ships, I can say with positiveness that our railroads have not the slightest interest in the question."

Regarding the proposed unmerging of the Southern and Central Pacific Railroad by the Government, he said: "It could not possibly do any good, because there would never be any competition between Ogden, Utah, which is about 1,000 miles east of San Francisco, and some point 1,000 miles south of San Francisco. The two systems which are, in reality, one system, are not competitive, and to separate them would be an unnecessary burden of expense upon shippers."

"The railroads are not increasing their equipment. In this respect they are standing absolutely still. They are in very positive need of the increased freight rate. If they do not get it they will keep going, of course; railroads have to do that."

"I think President Wilson's message on the trust question was very pleasing. With regard to the section devoted to interlocking directorates, it is probable that the moral effect will be greater than the actual. By this I mean that the effect upon the people as a whole will be greater than that to be established through the Attorney General."

Standard Oil of California

Showing net earnings of $19,386,140.46 in the year ended December 31, 1913, is what the annual statement of the Standard Oil Company of California for the year, and just made public, discloses, as also an increase of net profits over those of the year 1912 amounting to $12,279,984.29.

During the year 1913 dividends at the rate of 10 per cent per annum have been paid quarterly on the issued capital stock, amounting to $4,493,399.40 and the surplus account for the year has been increased $14,892,741.06.

The average daily production during last year was 26,575 barrels, as against 10,846 barrels a day during 1912. In December, 1913, the average daily production was 39,572 barrels, which is still being maintained at that figure.

The estimates for the new construction for the coming year will entail an approximate expenditure of about $5,000,000, covering a new tank steamer to duplicate the Richmond; 3,000,000 barrels steel tankage for additional storage, increased capacity for refineries and pipe lines and for additional marketing stations on the Pacific Coast.

Edison May Buy

On Saturday next, February 28, Commissioner Max Thelen of the State Railroad Commission, will be in San Fernando to hold a hearing in the matter of the application of the electric people there to sell out their properties. John T. Wilson and the San Fernando Mission Land Company wish to sell to the Pacific Light and Power Company, while the MacLay Rancho Water Company and the Consolidated Securities Company want to sell to the Southern California Edison Company.

The Commission has jurisdiction over the transfer of any public utilities and unless it raises some barrier itself there appears to be no reason why all the sales should not be consummated.

Money for Canal

Colonel George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, this week explained to the House Appropriations Committee his estimate of $23,700,000 for next year's work on the canal and the canal zone government. "We've spent $400,000,000 in constructing the Panama Canal," said Colonel Goethals. "American vessels, as well as foreign ships, should bear the burden."

Gas Company Increases Earnings

The Southern Counties Gas Company, of California, according to Manager Bivens, shows eighteen per cent increase in earnings in 1913 over 1912. During the year 1913 the plant was enlarged, $70,000 having been expended.

NO NEO-SALVARSAN FOR LOS ANGELES COUNTY HOSPITAL

All further employment of neo-salvarsan as a remedy in the treatment of patients by surgeons at the county hospital, says the Los Angeles Tribune, was prohibited yesterday in an order issued by Dr. Charles H. Whitman, superintendent of the institution, where seven men succumbed under the influence of the drug and created a medical mystery which has defied solution.

The order came, according to the executive physician, in the nature of a precaution against future fatalities of the kind, and was made as the result of diversified opinions regarding the actual merit and safety of the drug, which have been expressed on all sides since the problem presented itself. Dr. Whitman would not say whether the rule would become permanent.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

The market was rather quiet yesterday morning. Trading in staples was fair, but no changes were reported in any product but cheese. The receipts of cheese have been increasing rapidly, and the production is greater every day in the central part of the state. In San Francisco the price of northern full cream was forced down to 15 1/2 cents, and here it sold in a jobbing way freely at 17 cents. Other varieties, including Oregon and eastern cheese, have felt this reaction of quotations, and have also been declining gradually. Receipts of the product totaled 4220 pounds for yesterday.

Egg prices were steady on receipts of 736 cases. The demand is possibly in excess of the local supply. A large shipment of Chinese eggs is reported on the way from Seattle, where a shipload was landed several days ago. How many cases will come to Los Angeles is questionable.

Butter arrivals were 37,455 pounds. There was a slight feeling of weakness in the market, but no absolute break. Quotations are not expected to go much lower than they are at the present time, although dealers declare that they will not buy for storage over 20 cents.

5 Women Avoid Operations

For years we have been stating in the newspapers of the country that a great many women have escaped serious operations by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it is true.

We are permitted to publish in this announcement extracts from the letters of five women. All have been recently received unsolicited. Could any evidence be more convincing?

1. HODGDON, ME.—"I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached and I was so nervous I could not sleep, and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Me.

2. CHARLOTTE, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years, with pains in both sides and was very nervous. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor, and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health."—Mrs. ROSA SIMS, 16 Winona St., Charlotte, N. C.

3. HANOVER, PA.—"The doctor advised a severe operation, but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it."—Mrs. ANA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

4. DECATUR, ILL.—"I was sick in bed and three of the best physicians said I would have to be taken to the hospital for an operation as I had something growing in my left side. I refused to submit to the operation and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and it worked a miracle in my case, and I tell other women what it has done for me."—Mrs. LAURA A. GRISWOLD, 2300 Blk. East William Street, Decatur, Ill.

5. CLEVELAND, OHIO.—"I was very irregular and for several years my side pained me so that I expected to have to undergo an operation. Doctors said they knew of nothing that would help me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I became regular and free from pain. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Av., Cleveland, O.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

IN THE JUSTICE COURT

HALT! STOP WEDDING
TILL JUSTICE GETS NAMES CORRECT
 Justice of the Peace Cox was momentarily tangled during a marriage ceremony this afternoon. He was doing his best to marry a German couple in his usual pleasing and entertaining manner, but when he ran up against the bride's name he had to call a halt for explanations. The man in the ceremony was Rudolph Lensch, aged 34, and the woman was Marianne Zur Windmuhlen, aged 48, both of Los Angeles.
 "Rudolph Lensch, do you take this woman whose right hand you hold," etc., etc., and the justice pronounced the name Lensch with an accent quite like a native of the old country, which he is not. Then he came to the bride's name.

"Mary-annie," began he. Deputy County Clerk Backs, born at Anaheim and familiar with the tongue of his forefathers, had written the name Zur Windmuhlen correctly. There should be an umlaut sign over each letter u of that name. An umlaut sign is two dots, and when Justice Cox's eye reached the Zur with two dots over the u he thought he had it. His breath began to sizzle.

"Mary-annie z-z-z-z!" His glance went ahead and he saw another in the next name, and he thought it was time to call for help.

"How do you pronounce those names anyhow?" he asked, turning to the deputy clerk. Before Backs could help him out, the groom had pronounced the name giving the proper sound (somewhat as in goo-goo) to each u. Justice Cox ventured to say the Zur Windmuhlen over, after the groom, and proceeded to ask her if she would take the man whose right hand she held to be her lawful wedded husband, etc.

The answers were all in English; and the ceremony was soon over. The bride and groom know a lot more English than Cox does German.

UNREASONABLE TO CLAIM 15,000?

"No!" Says Commerce Secretary, "Not if You Figure on Number of Water Taps"

FEW REALIZE HOW
CITY IS GROWING

Santa Ana Would Total 17,124
If Long Beach Way of Computing Were Used

If this city were to compute its population in the same way that Long Beach does it would be found that Santa Ana has a total of 17,124 inhabitants. The Los Angeles Tribune prints an article which claims over 45,000 people for the beach city. This number is arrived at by multiplying the school enrollment by six. However, those in a position to know say that this is not a safe basis on which to figure. A more conservative method and one favored by Secretary Metzgar of the Chamber of Commerce is to determine the number of Santa Ana's water taps, which is 3560, and to multiply by four. This gives a total of 14,240, which number is undoubtedly a safe estimate of Santa Ana's population.

For boosting purposes it is incumbent upon the commerce secretary to know definitely the population of Santa Ana. In preparing his advertising literature J. R. Metzgar has been in the habit of claiming 15,000 inhabitants for this city. As a result of this not a few of the members of the Chamber of Commerce and others have taken the secretary to task, saying that the claim of 15,000 is beyond reason. Consequently the announcement that the water tap computation is very nearly right should vindicate Mr. Metzgar's claim.

SPLENDID REVIEW OF "THE BLUEBIRD"

Ernest Crozier Phillips Gave Interpretation of Mystic Story to Review Club

The Book Review Section of the Elbell Club met last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tedford, and listened to the allegorical story, entitled "The Bluebird," of which Maurice Maeterlinck is the author. The section was fortunate in having Ernest Crozier Phillips to interpret for them this beautiful tale with that sympathetic appreciation that dramatic training perfects.

Mr. Phillips said in part that Maeterlinck did not claim that the "Bluebird" was more than a simple imaginative fairy tale of the kind that children enjoy, and that even if this was all that could be found in the book it would be a gem of the imagination; however, since the author was a student of Swedenborg, who voiced the belief that all material things have a spiritual significance, it is only natural to give the story's characters the allegorical meaning which obviously belongs to them.

The play opens in its first scene in the cabin of a wood cutter, whose every furnishing indicates poverty. Two children, brother and sister, have been put to bed by their mother, who puts out the light and leaves the room. They are awakened by a light, and, going to the window, discover that it comes from their rich neighbor's home, where a splendid Christmas tree covered with presents is the attraction for many child guests. The children, without envy of their more favored neighbors fall to counting the gifts and in their imaginations choosing for themselves such as suit them most. Enter the fairy godmother, a la Cinderella, who tells them that her child is ill and she must have the singing grass and the bluebird in order to save her life. The children promise to search at once for this wonderful bluebird and the fairy gives the boy a diamond for his cap which upon being turned discloses things past and present which are hidden from mortal eyes.

As companions on the journey they have the Dog, the Cat, Water, Fire, Bread, Sugar, Light, etc., all of which thanks to the magic diamond now have personality and "speaking parts." They visit the "Land of Memory" peopled by those long since passed away whom they find to become re-animated when recollected. The children recall their deceased grandparents with whom they enjoy a visit and are besought to think of one of them. But no bluebird is found.

Then they visit the realm of Night, where its queen holds in various halls respectively, Ghosts, Horrors of War, Sickness, Dreams, Stars, Fireflies, etc. In the Hall of Dreams they think they have found the bluebird for there are scores of birds of that color, but on being brought to light they are found to be black and die directly. Continuing the search they go to the forest where the trees are also capable of talking but after further adventures there and in the land of unborn they return to their home. There the boy discovers that the bird he had as a pet and always thought white in color is really a "bluebird" and he gives it to the old

TROUT SEASON OPENS APRIL FIRST

Extra Patrol Will Keep Eagle
Eye Open for "Sooners" on San Juan Creek

STEEL-HEAD TROUT RUNNING AT SERRA

Fish Are of Good Size and All
Indications Point to Great Season

Get out your fishing paraphernalia, ye like Waltons! See to your rods and your reels. Overhaul your flies and your lines. The trout season opens April 1. And remember, don't forget to see the county clerk about that little matter of an angler's license.

Extra Patrol at San Juan
There is no doubt whatever on the part of a number of residents of San Juan Capistrano and Serra that the days immediately preceding the opening of the trout season bring out a large number of "sooners." For this reason, and also to show that they believe that when a law is in effect it should be lived up to, these Capistranans have contributed $5 each to a fund which provides for the patrolling of San Juan and other nearby creeks. They are doing this not because they have no belief in the effectiveness of the wardens furnished by the state, but simply because they realize the impossibility of a warden to patrol all districts at one and the same time. The hiring of the extra patrol will prove of mutual benefit.

Trout Running at Serra
All indications are that this will be a great season for trout fishing. Fishermen at Serra noticed a great many steel-head trout going up San Juan creek last Sunday. The trout appeared to be of a good size, and their quantity was to be judged by the number of fins that flashed at intervals above the water. One fellow was found dead in a shallow pool of water where he had been caught. He was eighteen inches in length and the fact that he was full of spawn proves that the trout now running at Serra are going up the creek for spawning purposes.

FRESNO PAPER PRINTS BOOST FOR STEVENS

Carl Stevens, the young Santa Ana catcher, is regarded with kindness and favor by Fresno baseball fans. The Fresno Republican has the following to say:

"Unless some of the new ones show up more advantageously than now expected, Stevens will be the first catcher for the locals this season. Old friend Steve was the second choice last year and during the few games he worked branded himself as a comer. Stevens' hitting ability has caused many a critical fan to give him the once over."

There is no doubt that the local boy is coming to the front. He is sure to be a bright addition to the rapidly growing list of first-class ball players who got their first training on the town lots of Santa Ana.

The Fresno Tigers are training at Hazard Park diamond, located some two miles from the center of Los Angeles.

CHAMP DE ORO MUCH TOO MUCH FOR EAMES IN FIRST TWO GAMES

Alfred de Oro of Cuba, three-cushion billiard champion, took a commanding lead Tuesday night in the first block of fifty points of a three-nights' match with Fred Eames of Denver. De Oro ran out, in 92 innings, while Eames scored 29 points. The champion made a run of six and the challenger's best was four.

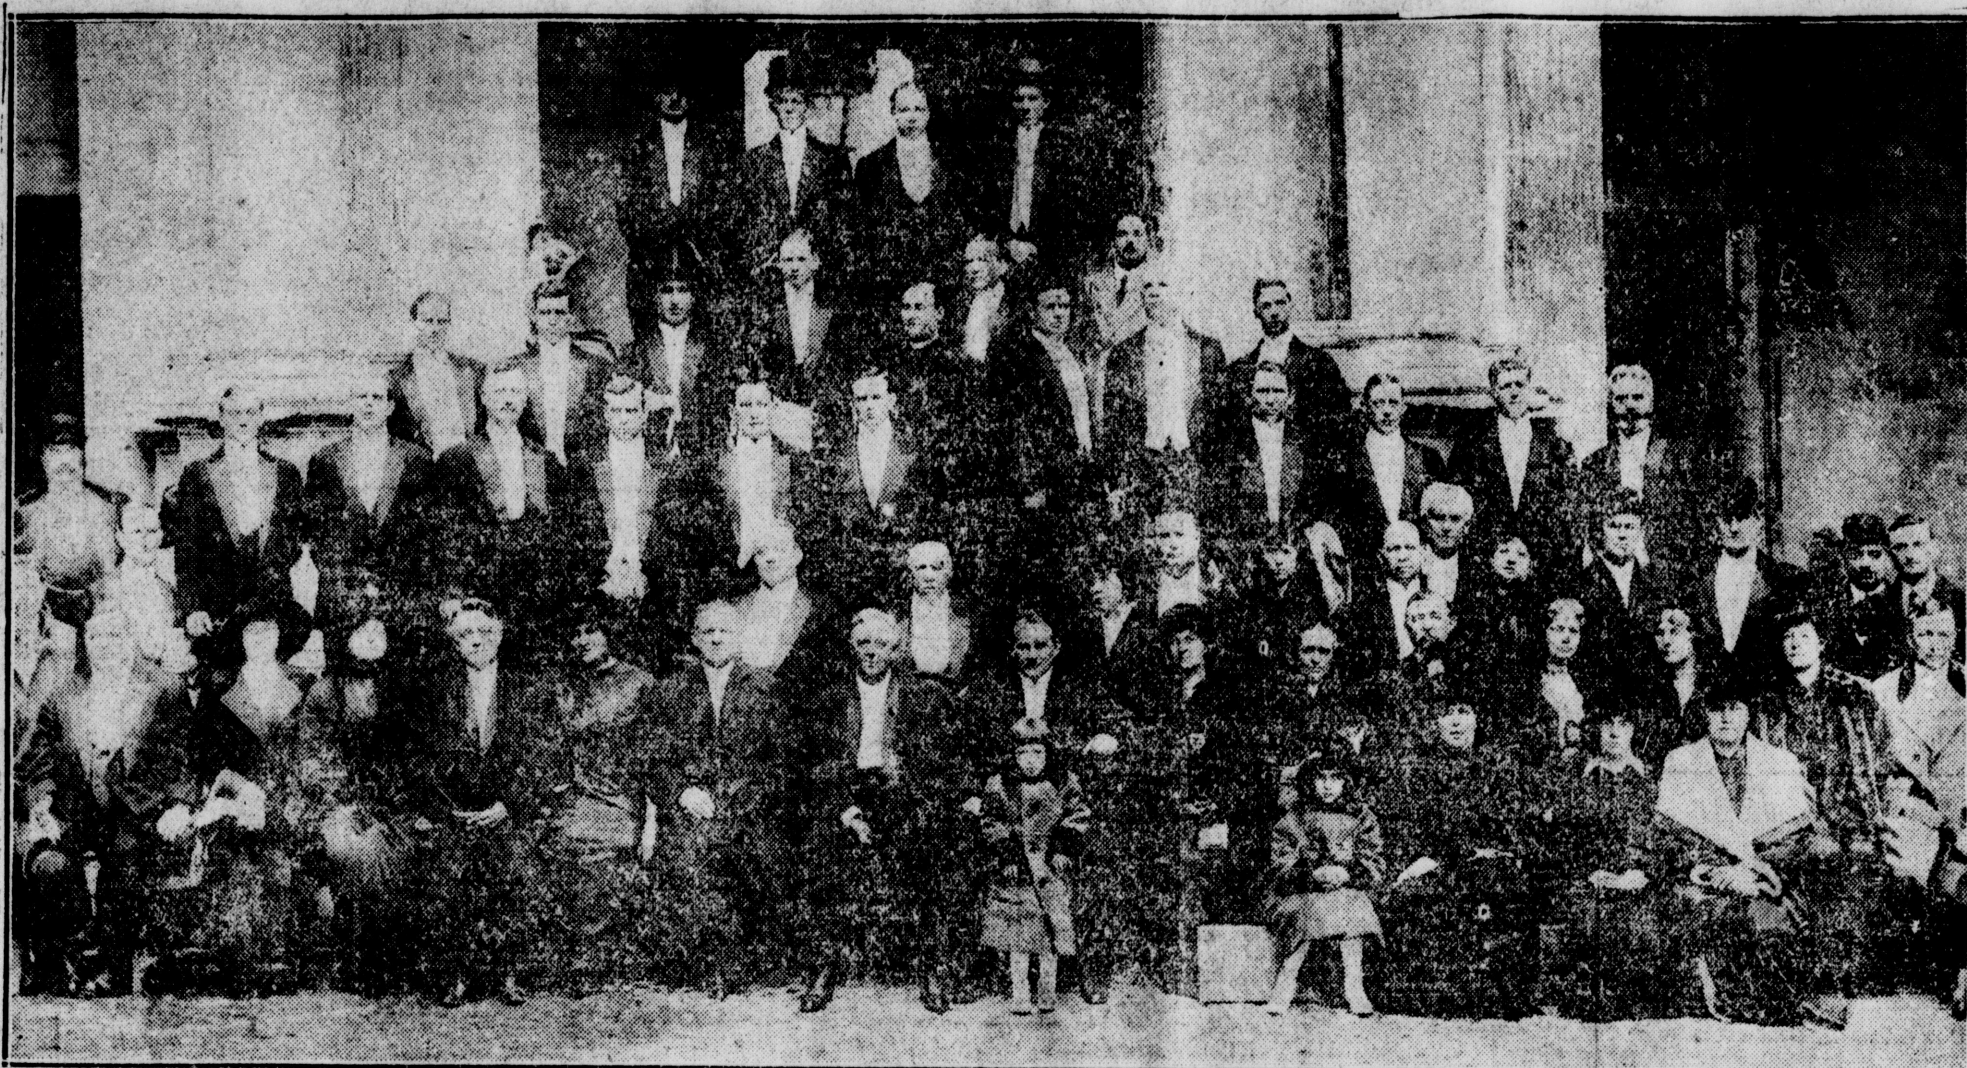

SALES OF CADILLACS MADE THIS MONTH

Since March 1 the Cadillac Garage has made the following sales of Cadillac cars:

Fred Rohrs, five-passenger car; Karl J. Klatt, five-passenger car; Mrs. R. J. Fargher, four-passenger car; J. B. Neff, five-passenger car; Peter Nichols, four-passenger car; Chris McNell, seven-passenger car.

H. McKelley, proprietor of the Cadillac Garage, states that up to date sales this season have been very large and that he has every reason to expect them to continue good.

Giants and White Sox Just After Reception by Pope on Their World Tour

The White Sox and the Giants, representing the American League in Chicago and the National League in New York, were received by Pope Pius in the Vatican when they reached Rome on their world tour. The clubs were later in England trying to show the British how to play baseball. Their reception there was like those they received in many foreign lands. King George himself went out to see them play their first game, and he is said to have vigorously applauded every good play—having been coached by some one who knew the game. All the members of the teams put on their dress suits for the Vatican reception. They filed in and the Pope held a long conversation with them, giving the whole crowd his blessing. He didn't know much about baseball, but he did remark on the healthy appearance of the athletes. That struck him so he was certain that baseball was a very good sport. In the lower row in the center of this photo, taken on the Vatican steps just after the players left the

Pope, may be seen John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, and Charles Comiskey, president of the White Sox. Comiskey was very sick in Rome and the picture shows him to be worn, but he was able to continue his journey with the clubs. A great reception was held for the athletes, who arrived in New York March 6. Many baseball men from all over the country were there to take part. The boys did not remain long in New York. McGraw hurried his men to Marlin, where some of the Giants have already begun training, while Manager Jimmy Callahan of the White Sox will take his men directly to their training camp in the south.

ATHLETIC CLUB HAS FIFTEEN SIGNED FOR APRIL TOURNAMENT

Boys Hiked Up Mt. Wilson
Sunday—Next Jaunt
to Laguna

The boxing tournament to be held the latter part of April at the Santa Ana Athletic Club promises to be a rattling good affair. Fifteen amateur boxers and wrestlers have already been signed up for the meet. The various entrants are hard at work at their training and it is expected that there will be some bouts that will be hard to beat for all around speed and cleverness.

Great Hike to Mt. Wilson
Last Sunday eleven members of the Walking Club "hiked" up Mount Wilson. All the boys finished. The trip to the top of the mountain was made in from three to six hours. It is rumored that Brick Grouard was somewhat indisposed Saturday and did not enter as one of the Mount Wilson hikers. Whether his indisposition was due to an overwhelming sense of the magnitude of the undertaking is not known. At any rate Brick, who had been expected to break some mountain climbing records, did not put in an appearance.

Girl Walkers Visit Orange
Last night fifteen young ladies, composing the Girls' Walking Club, went on a jaunt to Orange. The clear, crisp air and the moonlight made walking conditions ideal and the trip was enjoyed immensely. Refreshments were served at Orange before the return.

Boys Have Laguna on Schedule
The next hike to be taken by the Boys' Walking Club will be that to Laguna Beach. This is scheduled for a week from Sunday. It is proposed to go to the beach through the Laguna canyon and to make the return trip by way of Balboa and Huntington.

CADILLAC MAKES A GREAT RECORD

Police Department at Birmingham, Ala., Has One That Has Traveled 105,000 Miles in Two Years—Frequently Carries 12 to 15 Passengers

One hundred and five thousand miles in two years is the actual record made by a Cadillac used in the service of the police department of Birmingham, Ala. This patrol is in service day and night and is obliged to make its runs in all kinds of weather and over all kinds of roads. In spite of the hard wear it has received, and the extra weight it carries the car is apparently good for many thousands of miles.

The patrol wagon was built on a standard Cadillac chassis with a body built in Birmingham, which weighs 700 pounds more than the ordinary body of a five-passenger Cadillac. Frequently the car carries from 12 to 15 passengers in addition to this extra weight.

BRER FOX NOT SAFE WHEN COUNTY MEN WITH "HOUN" DAWGS" TAKE THE FIELD

Sport Started With Pot Hounds in Old
Swamp Days—Club Now has Fine
Packs of Coyote-Hunting Canines

It began about ten or fifteen years ago in what are now fondly termed the "old swamp days." There were as many, if not more restless adventurers in those days as now. Victor Walker was one of the gang. The first stories about the aristocratic sport of coon and bob cat hunting in California were written by Walker and published in the Los Angeles papers.

Then, as well as now, there was a supreme hankering in the land, an unmanageable thirst. A lot of the red-blooded fellows of the town were afflicted by that not-to-be-downed malady that is rampant among so many of the youngsters of all lands and all ages—the malady whose sole remedy is to be found in profuse quantities of action and excitement. So they betook themselves to the vile business of climbing about in the tule lands southwest of Santa Ana in earnest pursuit of a small and mongrel herd of what are known as pot hounds, which said hounds were themselves in frenzied chase of what poor and benighted coons and bob cats still roamed the land. The indulgence in this variety of sport continued for some time.

Came then one Slatter from Bethany, Missouri, who revealed in the enviable distinction of being the proud possessor of four English and Missouri-bred hounds, whose ancestry and lineage had been taken care of and managed in such a manner as to assure in each coming generation more and more of a craving on the part of the hounds to run coyotes to earth. Nothing to do then but to enter into negotiations with Slatter whereby, for a consideration of $150, said Slatter was to deliver his dogs into the permanent custody of the Santa Anans, who up to that time had debauched and lowered the royal sport of hunting by resorting to the low and plebeian proceeding of using pot hounds to hunt bob cats and coons. Coons! The abandoned wretches hunted coons!

Followed then unlimited and uncontrolled orgies of hunting coyotes with the newly acquired hounds. Gus Ward, Joe Wagner, Jim Conley, Ed Gaines and Tom Hill became even as kings. They were the envy of all the hunting populace. They were the champions and the super-beyond men of the local hunting world.

But their triumphant rule was not to go unchallenged. The reverence and homage accorded the owners of the hounds from the "show me" state was too much for certain persons—it brought on a chafing, as it were, a pronounced irritation, an undeniable petulance. There was J. A. Turner, for instance. He had been in the habit of riding with the boys and of seeing their dogs victoriously running the coyotes to earth. He stood it about as long as the circumstances warranted and then he, too, got busy. He, too, was tortured with an ambition to get in the glad rush. He believed himself of "them good old days back East" about twenty-five years before when, with the aid of modern American fox hounds he had been a hunter of red foxes. In due course of time three of these fox dogs arrived and then Mr. Turner himself became one of the elect. In fact, the new canines were held in such esteem locally that ever since then Orange county packs have been bred to the modern American fox hound strain.

Finally, that there might remain in the land not so much as a thin mist of doubt as to the true aristocracy, the ultra-blue-bloodedness of fox hunting activities in Orange county, the Southern California Fox and Wolf Hunters' Association was organized about three years ago. Gus Ward was made president, Jim Conley first vice-president and Ed Gaines of Olinia second vice-president. Joe Wagner of Placentia was elected secretary. The Southern California club was organized under the rules of the National Fox Hunters' Association. It is entirely a club whose sole intention is to provide sport for its members. At the same time its operations act beneficially toward the game interests of the county.

Each year the club, which has twenty-five members, including a number of Los Angeles men, has a hunt which lasts from a week to ten days. Coyotes are run on the Moulton, Chino and Bixby ranches. Louis Moulton is known among the hunters as a "good sport," as he does all in his power to make the meets successful by giving the boys permission to hunt on his ranch. All ranch owners are not so generous. Some absolutely forbid hunting on any of their property. This in spite of the fact that the Fox Club does as much as any other factor toward exterminating coyotes and bob cats. A year ago this winter Mr. Turner hung twenty-five "brushes" on his kennel gates.

Plans are already afoot for this year's hunt, which is to take place in April. The club leaves nothing undone in order that the hunts may be strictly "up to snuff." A culinary expert is hired and the wagons of the commissariat are loaded down profusely with material for the chef to work upon. Each year one night of the meet is set apart for ladies' night. A string band is furnished and the fair visitors are entertained in royal fashion.

On the ranches used for hunting, coyotes are what are known as "take downs"—gates in the barbed wire fences which may be let down to let the riders through. Of course this letting down of parts of fences is not strictly in accord with the traditions of fox hunting, but it must be remembered that on the Continent wooden fences are the only ones the hunters are called upon to take. Wire fences are too dangerous. Not that the men of the Southern California club are not courageous enough to put their horses over them. The point is that the risk of having a valuable horse lacerated by a barb is too great—a cut of this kind often results in lameness and not infrequently proves fatal.

The club uses no greyhounds on any of its hunts. They can run a coyote down in much shorter time than a fox hound, as they hunt by sight, while the latter hunt entirely by scent. As sport is one of the prime objects of the club, the less speedy dogs are used. The average time needed by a fox hound to run a coyote to earth is from forty minutes to an hour and a quarter. Hot, dry days are not favorable for bringing out the best there is in a fox hound. Their powers of scent become affected by the heat and dust. A Santa Ana wind was blowing during a great part of the meet last April, but in spite of this five coyotes and four bobcats were bagged.

There is a great rivalry among the members of the club as to which man owns the best dog. There is a faint rumor in the air that in the coming hunt this matter of canine-swing supremacy is to be definitely settled. Messrs. Turner, Ortega, Wagner and Cunningham are going to enter their hounds in the meet, each with the idea of carrying off the handsome trophy that is to go to the winner. This little side affair promises to add no little interest to the hunt, which as usual will not be entirely devoid of excitement.

LOCAL IKE WALTONS TO CHARTER LAUNCH FOR SUMMER SEASON

It is the intention of Clyde Bishop, William E. Menton, J. C. Burke and William Diers to charter the sixteen gasoline launch "Florence" of Newport, for the summer fishing season beginning the latter part of July.

The four Ike Waltons, who will be the crew of the "Florence," did a great deal of fishing last summer, and became so enamored of the sport that it was decided to lease a boat for the entire coming season. The launch will be used for week-end trips as well as for longer expeditions, one of which, to the San Clemente islands, will take a week or more.

The party will use light tackle exclusively. There will be no gaffing, as a net will be used to bring up the fish alive. The crew will keep only enough of its catch for eating, and the surplus will be thrown back. The launch "Florence" is thirty-seven and a half feet in length and its power is furnished by a twenty-horse-power engine.

NEARLY TIME FOR THE SMELT TO COME OUT ON SURF AT SERRA

The time for the smelt, sometimes called grunion and sardines, to come to shore for spawning purposes at Serra and other southern county points is near at hand. According to those who have studied the ways of these little fish they should begin to appear in the surf this coming Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The smelt are known to make their appearance during March, April and May two or three days after the full of the moon.

The fish, which vary in length from six to eight inches, ride to the beach on a large wave. Sometimes, when they are spawning, the wave recedes and the smelt are left on the sand, lying in wait for other waves to come up and carry them back into the water. It is then that it is possible to catch them, literally by the bucketful. Large fishing parties are made up to go to the beaches near Serra and Dana's Point during the time when it is known that the smelt will appear. There is fun and excitement enough for everyone. Not the least of the sport is furnished by the "duckings" that are almost certain to occur each time some excited fisherman forgets himself and gets caught in an oncoming wave.

A word of warning might be given those who like to combine exuberant joyousness with their fishing—the smelt dislike noise. It is known that when any disturbance takes place on the beach the fish swim away to more quiet points.

There are a great many who think that the stories about the smelt coming up on the beaches are "fish" stories. This is far from being the case. Go down to Serra and see for yourself.

UNION OIL COMPANY MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

This week the Union Oil Company began work on a big addition to its Santa Ana supply station. The company is putting a 1000-barrel concrete storage reservoir for storing road oil, which is to be 25x30 feet and 3½ feet in depth. It is also installing a heating plant, for heating road oil which, owing to its density, cannot be applied without first being heated.

Contractor Ferry, who is to furnish the oil for all the unfinished roads of the county good roads system, has contracted with the Union to supply him with all the oil to be used in this work.

Special "Health Warning" for March
—March is a trying month for the very young and for elderly people. Croup, bronchial colds, la grippe and pneumonia are to be feared and avoided. Foley's Honey and Tar is a great family medicine that will quickly stop a cough, check the progress of a cold, and relieve inflamed and congested air passages. E. C. Rhodes, Middleton, Ga., says: "La grippe gave me a hacking cough for which I got no relief until I took Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and was soon well of both cough and cold." WHARF ANGLERS BETTER BE CAREFUL

Warden Bordner Says He Will
Arrest After April 1 Anglers
Who Have No Licenses

THIS RUNS COUNTER TO FISH COMMISSION ORDERS

Rod and Reel Clubs and Others
Who Fish for Game Fish
Must Pay

Following is an extract from a letter sent to game wardens by the State Fish and Game Commission:

"It is not the intention of the commission to collect anglers' licenses from wharf fishermen."

"Members of the rod and reel clubs and others who fish for game-fishes are expected to take out a license."

In spite of this edict of the commission, Game Warden Borden of Long Beach has expressed himself to the effect that he intends to arrest, after April 1, all fishermen whatsoever who have not taken out anglers' licenses.

It is expected that there will be some interesting developments this coming month. Just why Warden Borden should take it upon himself to run counter to the State Fish and Game Commission's orders is not clear. It seems hardly fair that rod and reel club men should pay anglers' licenses while fishermen on the wharves who are not members and who may be fishing within a few feet of the club members, are exempt from payment.

In regard to why the Game Commission should have exempted wharf fishermen from paying licenses, it is thought that, owing to the fact that there was so much dissatisfaction among anglers when the law was passed, the commission resolved to rescind for this year only the collection of licenses from wharf fishermen. The supposition is that the commission believes in enforcing the law gradually—that after this year all anglers will have become used to the payment of fishing tax.

Trout, salmon, striped bass, black bass, tuna, sea bass, yellowtail, barracuda, surf fish and yellow, and spotfin croaker—these are the California game fish.

The county clerk has issued anglers' licenses to the following: Geo. M. Benedict, Daniel Bond, Dupert Best, Edwin J. Inwood, Harry M. Hazard, George A. Hess, C. F. Crose, Santa Ana; G. E. Flint, John S. Daneri, Henry Rohrs, Jr., Orange; P. J. Luther, Tustin; John J. Thomas, Claude V. Wees, Kimball Plympton, Laguna Beach; Arthur Johnson, Fullerton; James Pearce, Huntington Beach; C. W. McKeen, Hugh Tyler, Garden Grove; Joel S. Hardy, Villa Park; Bluford C. Baxter, Placentia.

INDOOR BASEBALL GAME WON BY F. B.

Last evening a picked team of ball players from the Fraternal Brotherhood Lodge met and defeated the crack indoor ball team of the United Presbyterian Church.

Martin Warren, the ever-smiling pitcher for the U. P. team, did the twirling and the Brotherhood boys took kindly to Warren's smiles and curves, hitting him freely.

In the seventh inning with the bases full, Will Harvey of the Brotherhood team knocked his usual home run.

The features of the game were in the eighth inning when Will Lindsay was put out between second and third base by Earl Harvey and Chas. Berry, and the base-running of George Fleischman.

The final score was 29 to 11 in favor of the Fraternal Brotherhood boys.

The teams presented the following line-up:

AUTO WAS SPECIALLY DECORATED FOR THEM

V. Eugene Peckham was married yesterday. Prior to the nuptial event he had left careful directions at the West End Garage for his car, new and polished to the last degree for his honeymoon trip, to be sent to the scene of the wedding. Mr. Peckham is secretary, also treasurer, of the West End Garage Company. The jovial bunch at the garage could not resist the opportunity. A pot of white paint and a set of amateur artists together made havoc of that car. When it reached the bridal residence it was unrecognizable to even its best friend. Fearfully and wonderfully executed designs significant of future domestic felicity adorned the body of the machine, while signs in bold letters informed all who might read that the occupants were "newly weds."

The classic gems of wit read "Oh, Joy," "Just Married," et cetera. Old shoes in magnificent profusion ornamented the machine.

But the "newly weds" were not daunted. They gallantly ascended the car in all its bizarre brilliancy and rode gayly away to the beaches for which they were bent. They were truly game.

POLY BASEBALL TEAM MEETS "OXY" FRIDAY

Because of the county track meet next Saturday the Polytechnic baseball team will not play a game that day. The team wants to see the meet and help to root for the track to help bring the county cup to Santa Ana.

However, Manager Morrison has arranged for a game Friday afternoon with "Shorty Smith's" Occidental team. This isn't the Occidental Varsity but every member of it is giving a "regular" run for his job, so that it is a team of varsity calibre.

The game promises to be a fast one.

Splendid Idea

"Some of the gags they get off in the continuous performances are enough to make one forswear the theater."

"I agree with you. But they are going to remedy that soon."

"Fine. In what way?"

"Haven't you heard? The movies are going to put on up-to-date vaudeville acts."

Lieut. J. C. Porte, Who Would Fly Over Atlantic

Lieutenant J. C. Porte has come to the United States to help build the great airship of Rodman Wanamaker in which an attempt will be made to fly across the Atlantic ocean. The lieutenant will be one of the pilots if the start is ever made.

"There is no doubt in my mind that we shall be successful," said he. "If we did not feel sure of making it, we would not attempt the trip. Nothing is to be left to chance, and every detail will be carefully figured out before the start."

"In making the flight I count on my observations more than anything else. The idea of leaving anything to guesswork does not appeal to me. The use of ordinary instruments in taking observations will not be feasible, owing to the altitude, and we are planning a specially designed sextant, which will render the use of the horizon unnecessary."

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT

Flush the Kidneys at Once
When Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Advertisement.

Overland 10,000 Man Power VS 1,000 Man Power

The Overland plants employ 10,000 men and produce 200 cars a day. This is the largest production of its kind in the world. Whereas the average factory employs less than 1000 men and often produces only 2 cars a day.

The difference between 10,000 men and 1,000 men and 200 cars per day as against 2 cars per day is so enormous that the number of material manufacturing economies which the larger production can effect must be apparent even to the most uninformed.

And this is why we can market this car for less than any other manufacturer in the business.

See this car at our dealer's. It is beautiful, graceful, powerful, economical and remarkably efficient and it costs you fully 30 per cent less than any other similar car made.

1915 BUG EXTERMINATION TO COST UNITED STATES $800,000

Insects Would, However, Cost Country
10 Times that Amount in Crops and Forests Ruined by Bugs

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Bugs! Bugs that fly and bugs that burrow, bugs that bite and bugs that sting; big bugs and tiny bugs, lady bugs, and bugs anything but lady-like are going to cost the federal government $800,000 in real money during the fiscal year of 1915. That is the amount carried in the agricultural bill now before Congress.

Dr. L. O. Howard, chief of the bureau of entomology and Uncle Sam's champion bug hunter, has pointed out, however, that these insects will cost the country fully 100 times that amount in cotton destroyed, corn, wheat and other grain crops injured; forests devastated, root crops ruined and fields laid almost bare. It is to stop such ravages as these that the bureau has maintained. That it saves many times its cost every year is easily demonstrated by statistics.

The biggest bug from the standpoint of destructiveness is the boll weevil, which is slowly but certainly retreating before the desperate attacks of the government scientists. But the "sinews of war" provided by the appropriation bill are also wanted for campaigns against the gypsy moth that attacks tree foliage, the horn worm that destroys tobacco plants, the cane insect that lays low cane fields, the alfalfa weevil that attacks that crop, the chinch bug that sucks the life from wheat and corn stalks, the codling moth that spoils tree fruits, the pine beetle and the bark beetle. The latter insect is a serious menace to the national and private forests because it destroys millions of feet of standing timber.

The cotton red spider also has been condemned as a public enemy, and two new menaces that have slipped past the immigration authorities are the Argentine ant, which ruins growing tobacco, and the Australian potato-tuber moth. This latter pest lays its eggs in young potatoes with the result that when the farmer digs them he finds a large caterpillar inside each tuber eating 16 meals a day. And finally there is a lot to be done in the way of reducing the number of house flies and stable flies which carry diseases more to be feared than crop failures.

"We have undertaken an extensive study of the house fly," said Dr. Howard on this point. "In the small farm and village 99 per cent of the house flies are bred in stable refuse, and we have been co-operating with the bureau of chemistry to find some substance that will kill the fly larvae and not impair the fertilizing value of the refuse. We have found recently that there are one or two such substances which may be used at an economical rate. I think we are on the verge of a very practical discovery which will be of great value in the way of reducing the house fly pest."

"We have several lines of work now going on in regard to the effect of insects upon the health of man and animals. We wish in the first place to complete the records of longevity of the cattle ticks. Then, as to stable flies, this insect has been shown to be instrumental in the carriage of infantile paralysis. We also expect to undertake a series of malarial fever studies and the bionomics of malarial mosquitoes, in order to provide remedies for the requirements of plantations, especially in the Mississippi delta where malaria is so rife, the idea being to find out what species of mosquito carry malaria in those districts, exactly how they breed, what can be done in the way of protecting people from their bites, and what can be done to destroy the mosquitoes in their breeding places. The alfalfa weevil is a serious problem in Utah and has spread to Wyoming and other neighboring states. As is always done in a case of this kind the bureau of entomology has secured the world for parasites to attack the new enemy. Two such have been imported, one from Italy and another from southern France. The alfalfa weevil fortunately cannot fly, but it gets into freight cars along the track, into bales of hay for shipment, and seems to know by instinct how to secure free transportation.

The boll weevil, which is capable of extended flights, is much more difficult to deal with. Much has been done to control it by burning cotton stalks after the crop has been picked and by introducing parasites. Dr. W. D. Hunter, in charge of southern field crop insect investigations for the bureau, says that records extending back 50 years in some instances show that the boll weevil never voluntarily leaves a territory it once invades.

"We have found that the weevil has already acquired a considerable number of parasites in this country," said Dr. Hunter in telling of the war on the cotton pest. "That is, there are parasite enemies of related weevils which have transferred their attack from their original hosts to the boll weevil when it came into new territory."

The introduction of the parasite has been particularly successful in the war against the gypsy moth and Dr. Howard estimates that the last year 50 per cent of the moths in New England were killed off by parasites imported from Europe and Japan. The present invested areas are the whole of Massachusetts as far west as the Connecticut river, the southern half of New Hampshire, the southern border of Maine running half way up the sea coast, and one or two colonies in Vermont. There are isolated colonies in the Berkshires, two in Connecticut near Stonington and Hartford, and one in Rhode Island.

WORDS FROM HOME

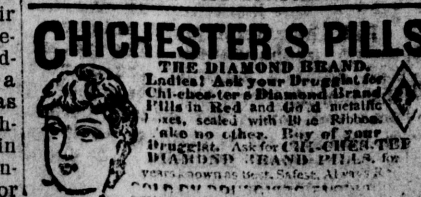

Statements that May Be Investigated—Testimony of Santa Ana Citizens

When a Santa Ana citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Santa Ana resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

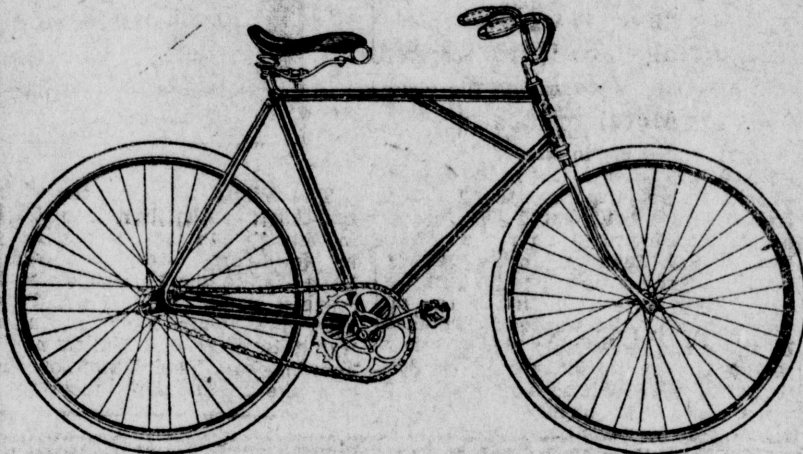

Mrs. Cynthia M. Madison, 901 E. Sixth St., Santa Ana, Cal., says: "About a year ago I was feeling very poorly in every way. My kidneys troubled me, showing signs of weakness. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me, and gave such satisfactory results that I have never hesitated to speak a good word for them. I keep a box of Doan's Kidney Pills in the house and whenever I feel out of sorts, I use them. I always find relief."

COUNTY SCHOOLS IN SATURDAY PROGRAM

Poly Track Men Will Meet Allied Forces of Orange, Anaheim, Fullerton, Huntington

The track men of the local high school will be up against the stiffest proposition of the year next Saturday when they meet the allied forces of Orange, Anaheim, Fullerton and Huntington Beach in the annual Orange county meet.

Orange was over last evening to take advantage of a little workout on the local track, where the meet will be staged and the information they gave out was of the class to throw a scare into any school in the southern part of the state. Murray smashed the county hurdle records in about seven different ways up at San Fernando last Saturday and they report that they won the relay with ease.

Douglas of Anaheim won the quarter in 53 min. 45 sec., or about a second better than the present county record. The younger Murray of Orange placed third to Douglas in good time. Watson, they claim, has bested 21 ft. 6 in. in the broad jump and the Orange man is clearing 5 ft. 8 in. in the high jump. They are promising 10.1 in the hundred, but have not much to say on the distance question.

The great Beebe of Anaheim is conceded the long runs without much of a struggle, but Keech of Santa Ana will get six points in the distances and show Douglas the race of his life in the quarter.

The Fahey brothers hope for places in the sprints and Damron is expected to finish well up in the 220.

Bob Hill and Martinez will be with their captain in the distance fights while Graves and Trumphy are ready to fight for places in the high hurdles and the two Playans are going to put up a great scrap in the lows.

Jumbo Anderson is due to break his county high jump record and set it up where it will stay for a while and Ernest Playan is sure to best 21 ft. in the broad jump. The pole vault record is also in danger. With the Santa Ana quartet all vaulting 10 feet and Brubaker of Orange with Gobar of Fullerton also consistent at that height, a good scrap is in view. Joe Irvine stands a good chance to place in the discus but the Santa Anans are not

Ex-President Taft's Brother, Who Saved the National League

Charles P. Taft, brother of former President Taft, has saved the National League in its most dangerous crisis in many years by purchasing the interest of Charles W. Murphy in the Cubs of Chicago. Thus Murphy, to whom most of the National League club owners and many in the American League objected on the ground that he is a disturber in organized baseball, was quickly eliminated.

Mr. Taft already owned a large share of the Cubs, having staked Murphy to buy the club many years ago. Murphy himself has said his own share was 53 per cent and that Mr. Taft paid him on a basis of a value of more than $1,000,000 for all the stock.

figuring very high in the shot.

The relay should be the star event as Orange is showing up well and Santa Ana has a fast bunch. Should the local boys win the meet they will have permanent possession of the cup, so it is Santa Ana against the county.

Sporting Briefs of the Week

[By Hal Sheridan]

NEW YORK, March 12.—Just to give things a real national and international tinge Uncle Sam is finding himself all tied up and twisted with preparations for the Cup races, which figure as one of the many blue ribbon events to be pulled off during the coming months. There is but little doubt that the coming struggle between Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV and the yacht that will be selected to defend the America's cup will attract tremendous interest and that the greatest throngs ever witnessing a yacht race will view the struggle off Sandy Hook. That is where the government comes in.

It is certain that pleasure craft of every description, steamers, private yachts and boats of every plan and pattern will be pressed into service and headed for the course, which will be several miles out at sea. It will therefore be up to the government inspectors to see that these craft are equipped with sufficient life boats as well as guarding against overcrowding. Then will come the patrolling of the course to keep the way clear for the racers.

Wireless telegraphy will probably figure most prominently in the "covering" of this race by newspapers and press associations. Private and observation vessels are expected to be equipped with wireless almost without exception. Press boats and boats for newspaper photographers and "movie" camera men will have to be looked after, to say nothing of the wireless supervision which will fall to Uncle Sam.

Secretary G. A. Cormack, of the New York Yacht Club, believes that 150,000 persons will witness the cup races. He expects the event will be keyed up in proper shape by the trial races between the candidate defenders now being constructed in this country, and by the time the big tussle is staged everybody will probably have picked up an amazing knowledge of nautical and yachting terms even in sections where water is seen only when there is nothing else to drink.

Preparations for the International Polo matches are going ahead rapidly. The Englishmen are now warming up in Spain, and expect to come to this country ready to put up the fight of their lives. There will be no laying back and permitting the Americans "beating them to the punch," such as marked their play last year.

Several candidates for the Meadowbrook four who will defend the cup have started training for the matches by playing hand ball and otherwise endeavoring to take out the kinks. Outdoor practice will start April 1, when the men will report at Lakewood, N. J. Practice will be held there for three weeks or a month, when the Meadowbrook field will be ready.

With Hank O'Day manager of the Chicago Cubs, there will be another opportunity to observe how an umpire acts when he is directing a team instead of calling balls and strikes. O'Day gave a fair example as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, but there would have been sweet going this year, had Johnny Evers remained a member of the Cubs.

With Johnny in Boston, O'Day still has a collection of men who do not go through a game without considerable jaw exercise. Bresnahan, for instance, usually speaks loud and long when a decision does not meet with his approval.

At the recent National League meeting here O'Day was discussing the rules. This was before he had been "tagged" by Murphy, or had been told he was to be manager of the Cubs. Some flaw was picked in a rule, and Hank immediately got into action.

"The rules are all right," he barked. "The rules are all right. All you need is to enforce 'em. If I had my way I would not let a manager open his face on decisions. When a team is at bat and the manager is on the bench, I would see that he stayed there. None of this running out business and ragging over called strikes or when a base-runner is called out. They ought to have to stay on the bench."

"I tell you, the rules are all right. Just enforce 'em, that's all; just enforce 'em."

It may be accepted as a fact that the Giants have a phenom. One of the New York correspondents at the Marlin, Texas, training camp, has had this to say in boosting Westwick, Pittsburg semi-pro pitcher, who aspires to work under McGraw:

"He winds up impressively, and before delivering the ball lifts his feet like Mathewson."

If Matty happened to have his brains in his feet, Westwick might swell up right off.

AMUSEMENTS

Helen Keller

The lecture is one of the most remarkable human chronicles ever told, and those who have heard Miss Keller realize that there could be no stronger example of optimism and courage shown in this triumph of one "blinded" girl.

"Blindness," said Miss Keller, "is thought by those who don't know to increase the power of other senses. That is not so. The habit of patience is the only compensation. The great obstacle still remains."

One can only realize the amount of Helen Keller's patience after hearing her speak and after seeing how she had made the outside world come to her and become a normal part of her life. The interest shown in the announced lecture by Helen Keller and her teacher and companion, Mrs. John Macy, at the Grand Opera House, matinee and evening, on March 13, has already proved this to be one of the events of the year in Santa Ana.

Barbara Frietche

The play, "Barbara Frietche" to be given at the Grand Saturday night by the High School, is certain to be a great success.

Everyone knows the pretty story of Barbara Frietche, and Clyde Fitch has rendered it doubly attractive. The cast is under the able direction of Mr. Phillips, and is exceptionally well chosen.

The title part of Barbara is well played by Mary Anderson, while John Manges will be seen in the role of Capt. Trumbull, a Northern soldier. Irving Burns is exceptionally good in the part of Jack Negly. The part of Barbara's father is taken by Raymond Adkinson, who is especially fitted for the part. The parts of Sally, Sue and Laura, three attractive Southern girls, are taken by Helen Remsburg, Corinne Burns and Mary Crozier, while the lines of Sally's father, Col. Negly, are particularly well interpreted by Carl Adams. Gladys Post makes a typical Southern mammy and a very sweet character. Arthur Frietche, the brother of Barbara, is played by Melton Hatch, and Esther Johnson takes the part of Mrs. Hunter, the minister's wife, splendidly. Dixon Tubbs and Welcome Ward are naturally fitted for the parts of Edgar Strong and Hal Boyd, while Guy Pearson and Frank West in the roles of Fred Galloway and Tim Greene are laughable characters. Verne House takes the part of Sergeant Perkins.

The characters are all well known, and all who have seen the rehearsals predict as great a success for Barbara Frietche as was Mr. Phillips' last play, "The Man from Home."

Fine Show at Clune's This Week

All those who attended the performances at Clune's theater last week were highly pleased with the vaudeville acts. But the management has arranged even a better program for the latter part of the week. There are to be three high class vaudeville numbers presented. Crawford & Co. will be seen in their Western comedy sketch entitled "Pards." This act is advertised as being a sketch de luxe.

Another number is Ford and Ford in "The Tramp and the Sourette," and Stanley and Lea will no doubt please all as musical artists.

The moving picture program has been changed and some special features have been secured.

"Lincoln the Lover"

Clune's Theater will present this exquisite photodrama, as the feature of its program arranged for Friday and Saturday. This is the latest Vitagraph Lincoln picture, called, "Lincoln the Lover" and it will live long in our memories.

Lincoln returns from his inauguration, sitting before his open fireplace, he dreams of his first love, his love for Ann Rutledge. As his mind wanders back over the years he recalls in wonderfully touching and beautiful visions the story of his great love and its sad ending. It is not only historic but one of the sweetest stories ever told in pictures or print.

The Princess

The pictures at the Princess last night proved very entertaining. "The Woman Pays," a powerful three-part drama by the Thauhauser Company, is a picture that cannot be praised too highly and one which holds the attention from beginning to end.

"The Wild Man From Borneo," and "What the Burglar Got," a split reel, furnishes plenty of comedy and takes the actors through a great many funny experiences. The same pictures will be shown this afternoon and evening.

THE CULPABLE BABBLINGS OF DIOGENES DING-BUSTIT

My ears have been insidiously assaulted, once or twice, by the rumor that sundry localities of the United States are sheltering various tatterdemallons and anarchists who have not yet been clubbed into being submissive Americans. Strangely enough, even though they, and numerous of their progenitors, have been born in this country and even though they have the privilege of the vote and dress as do others of our regular citizenry, they persist in clinging to the most reprehensible beliefs, the most wild and abandoned notions.

Among the mad views harbored by these vile outcasts may be mentioned the following:

1. That we have, in America, with possibly a half dozen exceptions, no plays nor playwrights worthy of the name.

2. That Israel Zangwill did not turn out a first-rate and workmanlike piece of dramatic scribbling when he wrote "The Melting Pot."

3. That Augustus Thomas is not a great playwright.

4. That Europeans are capable of producing masterpieces of art.

5. (a) That all Russians are not nihilists and anarchists. (b) That there are a number of Russians who have written better plays than any yet produced by Americans.

6. That a novel may be a great artistic accomplishment in spite of its having been excluded from the shelves of a Carnegie library on the count of being too frank.

7. That people who read poetry are not necessarily developing incipient idiocy.

8. That because a man goes to a ball game or a prize fight he need not be regarded with loathing and suspicion.

9. That it is not necessary to dabble coyly in the New Thought and the philosophy of Henri Bergson in order to be intellectual.

10. That the lines written by one John Keats, "beauty is truth, truth beauty; that is all ye know on earth and all ye need to know," come very near being sufficient as a philosophy of life.

11. That moving pictures are uninteresting.

12. (a) That Edgar Allan Poe was not a depraved pig, nor an indulger in diabolical bacchanalian lecheries. (b) That Poe's poetry is good in spite of the fact that his poems are not adorned with a mass of platitudinous twaddle and do not point a moral.

The mentioning of the foregoing will be sufficient to convince any thinking person that any one who could entertain these unchaste thoughts is a fit subject for the dungeon and the madhouse. Something should be done at once. Societies should be formed for the suppression and prevention of original thinking. Huge hordes of the populace, armed to the incisors with Winchester, Krupp guns, howitzers, matchlocks, muzzle-loaders, breech-loaders, horse pistols, rifles, shotguns, blunderbusses, muskets, and Gatling guns, should be sent out to scour the land in search of the offending parties. It would be a good idea to appoint committees to see to the enlarging of our penitentiaries.

You find these villains everywhere. The worst thing about them is that they are very quiet and unobtrusive. It is hard to locate them as they herd in cliques and do not advertise their ways of thinking among the public at large. This is probably due to fear.

Why it has come that rightful indignities have not yet been heaped upon the heads of the rascals or why extreme violence has not been done upon their persons I am at a loss to know. Whatever the reason may be the fact remains that they are still at large, indulging in their ribald sport of abusing the proletariat. For some of the bolder ones fail to control themselves. They pollute the pure pages of the public prints with their obscene brayings. Their typewriters continue to dribble with the horrible glue of what they consider the modern, the fresh and the recent. They keep on wielding the unwelcome tweezers of what they call true progress. They utter yells of delight as, fiendishly, they poke about in what they fondly believe to be the swamp of the smugly popular, bringing to light fresh samples of what they ardently term the disgusting slime of the superstitions of the preponderant American majority.

As I said before, something should be done.

Horrible and Sad

1. Your friend's explanation of how he got his eye blacked.

2. The promise of the Pacific Electric to finish double-tracking its line between Santa Ana and Los Angeles.

3. That a town can have banks with a total capitalization of $5,000,000 and yet not have a tourist hotel.

4. The rumor that the Mexican trouble will soon come to an end.

5. These babblings.

6. Painless dentists.

7. Robert W. Chambers.

8. Grape juice.
